A Short Catalogue of the Palaearctic Cochylidae (Lepidoptera)

[Pp. 341 — 400]

Krótki katalog palearktycznych Cochylidae (Lepidoptera)

Короткий каталог палеарктических Cochylidae (Lepidoptera)

Abstract. The paper contains some general data on the Palaearctic Cochylidae in comparison with the world fauna of that family, and a catalogue of the Palaearctic genera and species.

GENERAL PART

There is no catalogue of the Cochylidae of any region published up to date, though catalogues dealing with other Tortricoidea have appeared, viz., those by MEYRICK (1910) and OBRAZTSOV (1954—1968). Only REBEL (1901) published in his catalogus data concerning the family in question, treating it, however, as a subfamily of the Tortricidae.

It is impossible to compile a complete catalogue of the world fauna of the Cochylidae at this time because apart from some small papers dealing with little groups of the species there are no publications concerned with the faunas of Africa, S. Asia and America. Only the fauna of the Palaearctic Region is fairly well known due to works for „Microlepidoptera Palaearctica“. Thus readers of this catalogue who need more complete data should refer to the above mentioned series, vol. 3. The present catalogue contains only the names of the genera and species, their forms, synonyms and misspellings, with relevant references, whilst the erroneous identifications are omitted. The catalogue is arranged systematically, the synonyms are differentiated by a brevier. After each species its type locality is given, and at the end of passages concerning each species the known distribution is cited. Type localities have not been included for aberrations. The names for any colour forms are marked with „f.“ at the end of the citation. To facilitate use of the catalogue an alphabetical index is provided.

PRESENT KNOWLEDGE OF THE WORLD COCHYLIDAE

The majority of the papers that deal with the group in question concern Central Europe, and therefore the species of that area are rather well known both morphologically and biologically. Their distribution is fairly well known in Europe. However, many of those species are widely distributed even as far as East Asia, and data concerning their distribution in Asia are very scarce. The Asiatic fauna is most probably much richer than the European, but only a small percentage is known to date. For instance in Japan only 17 species are known whilst in Poland 55 species have been recorded. The African fauna is also very little known, especially that of the Ethiopian Region. So far about 15 species have been recorded, but very many further Cochylidae can be expected from there. In the Oriental Region the Cochylidae are represented by less than 20 species. The Australian Region comprises only a single species.

Cochylidae are abundant in the Nearctic Region but only a small number of species have been examined genitalically, and therefore the problem of the Nearctic fauna is still obscure. The available data show that it has many common points with the Palaearctic fauna. There are some species with a Holarctic distribution. However, we know that Aethes rutilana (HBN.) and probably also Ae. smethmanniana (F.) have been artificially introduced into the New World. There are also several genera common to both regions. On the other hand there are some genera and species endemic to the Nearctic Region, and further research will surely add some subsequent specific forms. The incomplete state of our knowledge of the Nearctic Cochylidae makes any exact comparison difficult at the present time.

The majority of the Neotropical Cochylidae belong to Phalonidia, Aethes, Carolella and Cochylis. The fauna of this region is, however, insufficiently known. It shows distinct connections with the Nearctic fauna.

The Palaearctic Region is much better known than the Nearctic, since the majority of the known species have been reexamined during recent studies. This fauna shows some connections with the Nearctic fauna. It is most probably not so abundant in species, but one can suppose many further species remain to be discovered.

REVIEW OF THE GENERA OF THE COCHYLIDAE

Present knowledge of the Cochylidae shows that most of the genera of this family are widely spread; but there are a few endemic genera, mainly in the Palaearctic, better-known region. All known genera of the family are arranged systematically and discussed below.

Hysterosia-group

Four genera characterized by the presence of the uncus and a strong, ventrally coalescent vinculum belong here. This group was treated by OBRAZTSOV as a distinct tribe (Hysterosiini), but his division has not been supported by other authors. The group is related to the Stenodes-group. The status of Prohy, sterophora is doubtful, as the only species of that genus shows some features common with those in the Cochylis-group. OBRAZTSOV placed his Acornutia (the genus established for Cochylis nana HAW.) in the group in question. It seems it is congeneric with Cochylis TREIT., however, some features of the genitalia and biology are distinct.

Hysterosia STEPHENS

This genus is abundant in species; in the Palaearctic Region there are 40 known species, widely distributed both in the North and the East, on the plains and in the mountains (especially in central Southern Asia). The genus is not found in Oriental, Ethiopian and Australian Regions. In the Nearctic Region there are several representatives of the genus showing strong relationship with the Palaearctic species, viz. to H. inopiana (HAW.) forming a small group characterized by an extensile ovipositor and a simple pattern of the forewing. Some other species fit well other groups of the Palaearctic Hysterosia, some are distinct. The genus has no representatives in the Neotropical Region, and some species described under this generic name and externally similar to Hysterosia species belong to other genera (often to Aethes BILLB.). The southern limit of the distribution of this genus according to present knowledge is in Guatemala.

Hysterophora OBRAZTSOV

A monotypic genus found only in the western part of the Palaearctic Region, occurring in Europe and Asia Minor. It is closely related to Hysterosia STEPH.

Prohysterophora RAZOWSKI

A monotypic genus characteristic of South-west part of the Palaearctic (Mediterranean sub-region). Its systematic position is still not clear.

Phtheochroa STEPHENS

A monotypis genus distributed only in Europe. Very many species have been described in this genus, but non of those examined has proved to be conspecific with Ph. rugosana (HBN.). The systematic position of this genus is rather indeterminate between the two groups of genera: Hysterosia and Stenodes.

Stenodes* -group

To this group belong genera with usually atrophied uncus and with weakly coalescent vinculum.

Stenodes* GUENÉE

This is a large genus which can be divided into several subgenera (compare the list of subgenera in the synonyms of the genus, p. 000). Stenodes is characteristic of the Palaearctic Region (76 species) and probably has its centre of distribution in central Southern Asia. It has only a few representatives in the northern part of the Region, being restricted mainly to warmer and rather dry areas. It enters the Oriental Region, where it is represented by a single species, and from where further species may remain to be discovered. Some of the Ethiopian species (e. g., Conchylis trimeni FELD. & ROG.) might be included in this genus, but they need further study to decide their generic position.

Phalonidia* LE MARCHAND

Numerous species belong to this genus (26 from the Palaearctic Region). There are no Phalonidia species known from the Ethiopian Region, although the genus is represented in all the remaining regions. In the Oriental Region there are 3 species which are closely related to Phalonidia pemixtana (DEN. & SCHIFF.). Ph. melitta (MEYR.) is the only representative of the genus known from Australia. Several species are known from the Nearctic Region and a few from the Neotropical Region. In the latter Region the species are distinctly differentiated genitally, and form 3 smaller groups.

Lasiothyris* MEYRICK

Lasiothyris MEYRICK, 1917, Trans. ent. Soc. London, 1917: 4.

Type-species: Lasiothyris limatula MEYRICK, 1917 — monotypic.

Lasiothyris is most probably congeneric with Phalonidia LE MARCH., but for any definite decision further material is needed. In addition to the type species four species have been described in this genus from the Neotropical Region. Three of them certainly belong to Phalonidia.

Heinrichia* BUSCK

Heinrichia BUSCK, 1939, Bull. S. Calif. Acad. Sci., 38: 103.

Type species: Phteoechora macrocarpana WALSINGHAM, 1895 — original designation.

As one can judge from the figure in BUSCK's paper the genus is related to Phalonidia LE MARCH.

Saphenista* WALSINGHAM

Saphenista WALSINGHAM, 1914, Biol. central. Amer., Lep. Het., 4: 296.

Type-species: Conchylis lacteipalpis WALSINGHAM, 1891 — original designation.

I have previously (RAZOWSKI, 1967) placed Conchylis lacteipalpis WALSM. in Phalonidia, basing on the structure of the female genitalia. Now, comparing the genitalia of some similar species I have realized that it is impossible to decide its generic position without examination of the male, because some Cochylis species from the Neotropical Region have female genitalia very similar to those of Phalonidia. Provisionally I am therefore reinstating Saphenista as a separate genus near Phalonidia in the systematic arrangement.

Irazona* RAZOWSKI

Irazona RAZOWSKI, 1964, Annls zool. Warszawa, 22: 356.

Type-species: Conchylis comes WALSINGHAM, 1884 — original designation.

The known species belonging to this genus occur in the Guyano-Brazilian subregion. They resemble Phalonidia and Stenodes in the structure of the male genitalia but the sacculus is provided with a comparatively more or less distinct basal process. About 10 species are at present in this genus.

Trachybyrsis* MEYRICK

Trachybyrsis MEYRICK, 1927, Exotic Microlepidopt., 3: 368.

Type-species: Trachybyrsis euglypta MEYRICK, 1927 — monotypis.

An Ethiopian endemic genus comprising two species. A third species, viz., T. chionochlaena MEYR. (from Ethiopia), described in this genus is doubtfully congeneric and will probably need to be transferred.

Ceratoxanthis* RAZOWSKI

This genus comprises two species which occur in S. E. Europe and Turkestan. It has rather distinct position in its group due to peculiar connection between aedeagus and juxta.

Fulvoclygia* OBRAZTSOV

This genus is confined to the western and central parts of the Palaearctic Region. The centre of its distribution is probably in S. E. Europe or Asia Minor. Ten species are known at present.

Agapeta* HÜBNER

Also a Palaearctic genus most prevalent in the central and western parts of the Region. It comprises four species resembling externally the representatives of the genus Fulvoclygia.

Phtheochroides* OBRAZTSOV

Two species belong here, one species is endemic to Japan, the other species occurring in Central Asia and Japan.

Lorita* -group

This group is represented by a single genus characterized by a long terminal process of the tegumen (? uncus). The systematic position is uncertain.

Lorita* BUSCK

Lorita BUSCK, 1939, Bull. S. Calif. Acad. Sci., 38: 100.

Type species: Lorita abornana BUSCK, 1939 — original designation.

Endemic to the Guyano-Brazilian subregion. It shows some features common to Cochylis and Hysterosia.

Aethes* -group

To this group belong some genera characterized by usually long, slender socii and separate ventral ends of the vinculum.

Eugnosta* HÜBNER

The species belonging to Eugnosta HBN. are characterized usually by the pearl ground colour of the forewing. However, two Palaearctic species are devoid of such ground colour though they rather resemble species of other genera of this group. The genus is distributed in the Palaearctic (14 species) and Nearctic Regions (1 species).

Carolella* BUSCK

Carolella BUSCK, 1939, Bull. S. Calif. Acad. Sci., 38: 104.

Type-species: Pharmacis sartana HÜBNER, 1823 — original designation.

Pharmacis HÜBNER, 1823, Zutrage exot. Schmett., 2: 10 — nom. praeoccup.

Very close to Eugnosta HBN., having, however, a different pattern of the forewing. The differences among the species in the genitalia are very slight. The genus comprises several species occurring in the Nearctic and Neotropical Regions. Several species occur in the Ethiopian Region, the structure of male genitalia of which is very similar to that of the American species. These species most probably belong to Carolella BUSCK. The systematic position of this genus is not clear. It is possible Carolella is only a subgenus of Eugnosta.

Eupoecilia STEPHENS

This is rather well known genus (24 species) distributed in the Palaearctic, Australian and Oriental Regions. For New Guinean dactylota DIAKONOFF described a new genus Arachniotes (1952, Verh. kon. Ned. Akad. Wet., Nat., 63: 24). The centre of distribution of this genus is probably in western part of the Oriental Region.

Commophila HÜBNER

A monotypic genus represented by an endemic European species. It is very close to the three preceding genera.

Prochlidonia RAZOWSKI

A Palaearctic genus represented by two species, one of which is known from Europe, the second from Asia Minor.

Aethes BILLBERG

A large genus represented in the Palaearctic fauna by 64 species. Only one species is known from the Oriental Region. The genus is abundant in species in the Nearctic and Neotropical Regions. Some Neotropical species resemble externally species of Hysterosia and have been described under that generic name. The species of the genus in question form some groups, which have been treated sometimes as distinct subgenera or even genera (for instance Lozopera STEPHENS).

Aethesoides RAZOWSKI

Aethesoides RAZOWSKI, 1964, Annls zool. Warszawa, 22: 357.

Type-species: Phalonia distigmatana WALSINGHAM, 1895 — original designation.

This genus comprises 5 species known to me (2 of which at present undescribed) characteristic of the Neotropical Region. The genus is very close to Aethes BILLB., differing in the shape of the costal part of the valva.

Cochylis -group

This group comprises the genera in which the socii are very often situated in the membranous scaphium and the vinculum is not coalescent ventrally (except Spinipogon RAZ.).

Cochylidia OBRAZTSOV

Nine Palaearctic species are at present known in this genus. They are widely distributed in the region; two species occur in Japan. There seems a possibility that some Cochylidia species may be recognized in Nearctic Region.

Diceratura DJAKONOV

This genus is endemic to the Palaearctic Region (8 species) and is most prevalent in its southern parts. The species of Diceratura are known from Europe, North Africa, Asia Minor and Central Asia: Afghanistan. Very close to Cochylidia OBR.

Cochylis TREITSCHKE

A genus abundant in species (25 species in the Palaearctic Region) which form several groups. Some of these groups can be treated as subgenera (see list of synonyms of this genus in the catalogue). The genus is distributed in the Palaearctic, Oriental (2 species), Nearctic and Neotropical Regions. In the two latter regions numerous species occur and some of them form a distinct group characterized by elongate valvae, similar to those in Phalonidia LE MARCH.

Amallectis MEYRICK

Amallectis MEYRICK, 1917, Trans. ent. Soc. London, 1917: 1.

Type-species: Amallectis devincta MEYRICK, 1917 — monotypic.

This genus seems to be very close to Cochylis TREIT., and probably could be treated as a subgenus. Examination of further material is needed to decide on its systematic position. Apart from the type-species five species have been described from the Nearctic Region.

Cryptocochylis RAZOWSKI

A monotypic genus occurring in the western part of the Palaearctic Region (Europe, Asia Minor). Very close to Cochylis TREIT.

Spinipogon RAZOWSKI

Spinipogon RAZOWSKI, 1967, Acta zool. cracov., 12: 199.

Type-species: Spinipogon trivius RAZOWSKI, 1967 — original designation.

A Neotropical genus comprising three species. Close to Cochylis TREIT., but with a distinctive, ventrally coalescent vinculum.

Falseuncaria OBRAZTSOV & SWATSCHEK

A Palaearctic genus comprising four species probably being a development of Cochylis. It is characterized by the peculiar, elongate terminal part of the tegumen in the male genitalia.

Aprepodoxa MEYRICK

To this genus belong a single species occurring in China. As the only known specimen is a female the definitive systematic position of the genus cannot be settled until further material is available.

Thyraylia WALSINGHAM

Thyraylia WALSINGHAM, 1897, Proc. zool. Soc. London, 1897: 138.

Type-species: Conchylis bunteana ROBINSON, 1869 — monotypic.

The type species of this genus has not been examined by me, thus any discussion on the systematic position of the genus is impossible.

II. A SYSTEMATIC CATALOGUE

Cochylidae

Cochylidi GUENÉE, 1845, Annls Soc. ent. Fr., (2) 3: 297

Type genus: Cochylis TREITSCHKE, 1829

Conchylidae MEYRICK, 1881, Proc. linn. Soc. N. S. Wales, 6: 413

Type genus: Conchylis SODOFFSKY, 1837 (nom. emend.)

Lozoperidae WILKINSON, 1859, The British Tortr.: 278

Type genus: Lozopera STEPHENS, 1829

Phaloniadae MEYRICK, 1895, A Handbook of Brit. Lepidoptera: 543; Phaloniinae (auct.)

Type genus: Phalonia HÜBNER, 1825

Commophiliidae DURRANT, 1918, Nov. Zool., 25: 387

Type genus: Commophila HÜBNER, 1825

Aetheinae OBRAZTSOV, 1946, Z. wien. ent. Ges., 30 (1945): 22

Type species: Aethes BILLBERG, 1820

Agapetidae OBRAZTSOV, 1950, Entomological News, 61: 198

Type genus: Agapeta HÜBNER, 1825

Hysterosia STEPHENS, 1852

Syst. Cat. Brit. Ins., 2: 85

Type species: Tortrix inopiana HAWORTH, [1811] — monotyp.

Idiographis LEDERER, 1859, Wien. ent. Mschr., 3: 242. Type species: Tortrix centrana HERICH-SCHÄFFER, 1851 (= inopiana HAWORTH) — monotyp.

Propira DURRANT 1914 [in] WALSINGHAM, Biol. cent.-am. Lepidopt., Heterocera, 4: 297. Type species: Tortrix schreibersiana FRÖLICH, 1828 — designated by FLETCHER, 1929.

Arce JOANNIS, 1919, Annls Soc. ent. Fr., 88: 18. Type species: Cochylis sulphurana GUENÉE, 1845 (= frigidana GUENÉE) — monotyp.

Hysterosia Parahysterosia RAZOWSKI, 1960, Pol. Pismo ent., 30: 289. Type species: Cochylis simoniana STAUDINGER, 1859 — monotyp. design.

Hysterosia Durrantia RAZOWSKI, 1960, ibid. — invalid name.

List of species:

1. H. rectangulana (CHRÉTIEN)

Conchylis rectangulana CHRÉTIEN, 1915, Annls Soc. ent. Fr., 84: 297—

- Algeria: Biskra.
 Distr: Algeria, Tunesia.

Conchylis schawerdae REBEL, 1908 [in] SCHAWERDA, Verh. zool.-bot. Ges. Wien, 8: 255 —
 Yugoslavia: Vucija Bara.
 Distr.: Pyrenees, mountains of Yugoslavia and Albania.
4. H. lucentana (KENNEL)
Cochylis lucentana KENNEL, 1899, Dt. ent. Z. Iris, 12: 30, pl. 1 fig. 28 —
 Asia Minor: Marash.
5. H. palpana (RAGONOT)
Conchylis palpana RAGONOT, 1894, Annls Soc. ent. Fr., 63: 195 — Asia
 Minor: Hadjin.
 Distr.: Asia Minor, Syria, Mesopotamia.
6. H. duponchelana (DUPONCHEL)
Seriocoris duponchelana DUPONCHEL, 1843, Hist. Nat. Lep. Fr., Suppl.,
4: 143, pl. 62 fig. 5 — Italy: Naples.
Phtheochroa gloriosana HERRICH-SCHÄFFER, 1851, Syst. Bearb. Schmett. Eur., 4: 194 —
 Hungary: Banat.
Hysterosia syriaca WALSINGHAM, 1900, Ann. & Mag. Nat. Hist., ser. 7, 5: 446 — Asia
 Minor: Shar Devesy.
Hysterosia duponcheliana [sic!] KENNEL, 1913, Pal. Tortr.: 346 — misspelling.
 Distr.: S. France, Sicily, Albania, Yugoslavia: Herzegovina, Greece,
 Kreta, Asia Minor, Lebanon, Syria, Algeria, Morocco.
7. H. aureopunctana (RAGONOT)
Conchylis aureopunctana RAGONOT, 1894, Annls Soc. ent. Fr., 63: 189 — Syria.
 Distr.: Lebanon, Israel, Iran, Syria.
8. H. unionana KENNEL
Hysterosia (Idiographis) unionana KENNEL, 1900, Dt. ent. Z. Iris, 13:
 135, pl. 5 fig. 11 — Caucasus.
 Distr.: Romania: Suceava, Caucasus, ? Asia Minor: Ak-Shehir.
9. H. purana (GUENÉE)
Argyrolepis purana GUENÉE, 1846, Eur. Mier. Index: 64 — S. France.
Cochylis limbatana Herrich-Schäffer, 1851, Syst. Bearb. Schmett. Eur., 4: 191 — Yugoslavia: Rijeka.
 Distr.: S. France, Hungary, Yugoslavia, ? Asia Minor.

10. H. procerana (LEDERER)

Conchyliis procerana LEDERER, 1863, Wien. ent. Mschr., 7: 45, pl. 1 fig. 11 — Bulgaria: Slivno.

Distr.: Hungary, Bulgaria, Romania, N. O. Turkey.

11. H. durbonana (LHOMME)

Phalonia durbonana LHOMME, 1937, Amat. Papillons, 8: 202 — W. Alps (France): S. Julien.

12. H. purissima (OSTHELDER)

Phalonia purissima OSTHELDER, 1938, Mitt. münchen. ent. Ges., 28: 24 — Iran, Elburs Mts.: Särdab Valley.

13. H. chalcantha (MEYRICK)

Pharmacis chalcantha MEYRICK, 1912, Exot. Microlepidopt., 1: 20 — Asia Minor: Alma Dagh.

14. H. krulikowskiji (OBRAZTSOV)

Propira krulikowskiji OBRAZTSOV, 1944, Dt. ent. Z. Iris, 57: 69 — Ukraina: Viatka Distr.

Phalonia (Hysterosia) kazakhstanica DANILEVSKIJ, 1962, [in] DANILEVSKIJ, KUZNETSOV & FALKOVITSH, Trudy Inst. Zool. A. N. Kazakhs. S.S. R., 18: 109, fig. 14 — Kazakh SSR: Alma Ata.
